THE CHANGING FACE OF KING’S CROSS & CAMDEN

The transformation of King’s Cross has been phenomenal. Likewise Camden, known for its edgy market and music scene, is being revamped by an injection of public and private money. In recent years both have established themselves among London’s most sought after addresses.

KING’S CROSS

With a spectacular new art school at its heart, numerous exciting residential and commercial developments and even its own post code, the King’s Cross regeneration area is colossal. It has altered this transport and industrial district almost beyond recognition. There’s a thriving arts and cultural scene, busy nightlife and real sense of community among the 45,000 people who live, work or study here.

Improvement continues apace, but not at the expense of history – the wonderfully restored granary buildings are testament to this.

CAMDEN TOWN

Camden’s world famous market and music scene have established it among London’s most iconic destinations. Over the years the numerous pubs and venues have played host to rock legends such as Pink Floyd, Jimmy Hendrix and the Doors.

Recently, more and more quality independent restaurants, cafés and big brands have started to arrive. These new additions have broadened the shopping, food and hospitality offer, and complement the colourful selection of existing stalls and stores. Camden remains as cool as ever and very much in touch with its history.

KING'S CROSS TO EVERYWHERE

King's Cross and St Pancras stations form London's major transport hub. From here you have myriad options for local, national and international travel.

Six tube lines give access to all corners of London. Many local buses pick up and drop off at King's Cross, while intercity and international trains run up and down the country and into Europe. Let's not forget travelling on foot or by bike. Many of the capital's commercial centres and places of interest are within a short cycle or a slightly longer walk.

EXCELLENCE IN ART & DESIGN

In 2011 leading arts college Central St Martins swapped its Holborn home for the beautifully restored granary building in King's Cross. It's helped put the area very much at the centre of London's creative scene. Students come from all across the globe to study here and many will go on to be the brightest artists and designers of tomorrow. Past graduates include painter Lucian Freud, Turner Prize winner Laure Prouvost and a long list of leading fashion designers such as Alexander McQueen and Stella McCartney.

St Martins hosts numerous events and exhibitions, but with almost 5,000 students studying here the artistic influence naturally spills out from within the college, benefiting the wider community.

A dedicated King's Cross art programme entitled RELAY has seen weird and wonderful creations popping up all around. Inspired by the transformation of the area, installations have included a giant neon birdcage and huge metallic patterns stretching across major buildings.

In Granary Square outside the main entrance to the college, 1,000 individually choreographed fountains fill the space. On sunny days kids can cool down by running through the jets and every evening between 7pm and 8pm they are lit to form a spectacular light show.

EFFICIENT & SUSTAINABLE

Great care has been taken to ensure XY is an exemplar development, with buildings that are green and efficient, redesigned public spaces and all the facilities for a modern, sustainable lifestyle.

An on-site energy centre using the latest in green technology will provide efficient energy supply to all homes. High performance building materials and techniques will ensure this is an exemplar sustainable development.

Parts of York Way will be given a new lease of life, making the main connection with King's Cross more attractive for pedestrians.

XY's landscaped public areas and communal facilities will also encourage residents to socialise and relax within their local community.

Cyclists will also be well provided for, with allocated, safe storage facilities in the development, and the addition of Transport for London self-service hire bikes on the revamped York Way. Maiden Lane is a car free development with no car parking available on site.

To the south of Maiden Lane, sections of a Site of Nature Conservation Importance (SNCI) have been made into community gardens.

An extensive programme of tree planting will help create a similarly colourful, leafy and diverse environment across the rest of the development. Species will include fruit trees, shrubs, hedges and perennials.

Green and brown 'living' roofs will be installed on many of the new buildings, and bird boxes fitted in open spaces and private gardens.

The green roofs will be planted with a mixture of 15 different grasses and a selection of wildflowers and herbs. These will provide an important source of nectar attracting bees, insects and birds. Grasses that flower at different times have been selected to keep the roofs green for as long as possible, which will increase biodiversity as well as look attractive.

Brown roofs made using crushed brick, log piles, sand and rocks will be seeded with 12 different plant species. This will recreate habitats such as the former railway sidings on which Maiden Lane was originally built, and attract local birds and insects.

A carefully planned programme of services will ensure the development is beautifully maintained and stays that way.

REGENERATE & INVIGORATE

The regeneration of Maiden Lane will give a great boost to an area with much history and a thriving local community. It will provide smart, modern, shared, private and Camden rented homes. New and improved open spaces, a new play area for children, café, retail and low cost employment space will also be included.

The regeneration of Maiden Lane is being delivered by Camden Council through its Community Investment Programme.

WHAT IS THE COMMUNITY INVESTMENT PROGRAMME?

In Camden we need £403 million to maintain and refurbish schools, council estates, community centres, parks and roads. On top of this we've lost over £200 million of capital funding from government. Camden's Community Investment Programme (CIP) is our answer to these cuts whilst simultaneously ensuring we continue to invest in our communities.

We're doing this by redeveloping or selling buildings or land that are underused or expensive to maintain. This will help us generate funds that are not otherwise available to reinvest into improving other services and facilities.

The CIP is one of the capital's largest housing programmes and will bring new council rented and shared ownership family homes to Camden.

WHAT THE CIP WILL DELIVER FOR CAMDEN:

- Thousands of new homes
- The first new council homes for rent in nearly 20 years
- New kitchens, bathrooms and windows for thousands of council homes through our Better Homes programme
- Create apprenticeships and job opportunities for local people
- Improve schools and create hundreds of new school places
- Improve community facilities and space

For more information please visit cip.camden.gov.uk

A PLACE FOR EVERYONE

In summer 2014 Camden opened a brand new, state-of-the-art public leisure facility and relocated community facilities in the heart of King's Cross at 5 Pancras Square. The new community building, which includes two pools, a new fitness gym, café, relocated modern library and customer access centre, has been designed to offer something for everybody and is provided at no additional cost to Camden's Council Tax payers. These new facilities at 5 Pancras Square are a result of listening to what people wanted regarding the King's Cross regeneration.

PANCRAS SQUARE LEISURE CENTRE

The new leisure centre, which is operated by our partners Greenwich Leisure Limited, includes a fully equipped gym with state-of-the-art fully accessible equipment and fitness studios as well as two swimming pools, a Jacuzzi and a sauna. The 25m pool has a moveable floor to support access for disabled users and those learning to swim.

Pancras Square Leisure Centre is for everyone to use, young and old and for people on all levels of income. There is no premium for this new leisure centre. Prices start from as little as £1.25 and £2.10 for a child and adult swim respectively. There will also be free swimming for older and young people at certain times.

This is one of our most accessible leisure centres with 'changing places' and toilet facilities available to support those with profound and multiple learning disabilities.

PANCRAS SQUARE LIBRARY

Pancras Square Library provides a modern and welcoming space with up to the minute new books and high-tech equipment.

The library is next to the café and includes a youth zone, children's library, PC suite, and a mix of current technology to support everyone's learning. Pancras Square Library has a range of activities, sessions and class visits such as Rhyme Time, Game Zone, and Maths and English homework clubs.

CONTACT CAMDEN CUSTOMER SERVICES

Serving our residents is central to everything that we do. We are improving what you can do online but there will always be a need to meet and talk to someone so you can make an appointment to discuss matters such as benefits and entitlements, housing issues or parent support.
