AT DYERS BUILDINGS

EST. 1551

“Dyers Buildings were originally warehouses belonging to the guild of artisans specialising in textile dyeing. Upon being granted a royal charter by King Henry VI, this guild became the Dyers’ Company of London, and its coat of arms features two multi-coloured-spotted panthers. The same motif appeared on the King’s badge, on which the spots represented the monarch’s ‘many excellent virtues’. The arms also feature three bags of ‘Madder’. The root of the Madder plant produces a bright red pigment, once used to dye the jackets worn by huntsmen, known as ‘Hunting Pinks’; hence the name Pinks Mews.”

PINKS MEWS

Rarely in London does such an opportunity reveal itself

PINKS MEWS

*Invisible to the passer-by and accessed via a private lane,
Pinks Mews is a secluded enclave in the heart of Holborn
– one of London's historical, central neighbourhoods.*

Tucked away in this gated environment, within six beautiful Victorian buildings, these 35 luxuriously crafted apartments and duplexes offer a rare and unique lifestyle, as yet unknown. They follow a design vision and specification unheard of outside Mayfair, Knightsbridge or Belgravia. Private entrances, dedicated lifts and 24-hour concierge, complete the picture of the perfect urban retreat.

And upon leaving their blissfully tranquil home, residents will find themselves in the burgeoning quarter of London Midtown and discover a world of inspiration on their doorstep.

THE NEIGHBOURHOOD

A Vibrant Heart

Midtown is the newly coined name for a resurging area in prime central London, revolving around Holborn and Chancery Lane. As the stronghold of the legal profession for centuries, it has always been a successful commercial district, with niches of characterful residential areas, open spaces and unrivalled transport links.

Straddling the City and West End, and with the completion of Crossrail in sight, global brands, such as Google and Amazon, have already jumped in. And, with entrepreneurs seeking to harvest this new customer crop, the area is seeing an increasing richness in business biodiversity. Crossrail is set to significantly increase midtown's property value – forecasts have estimated 42% growth for housing prices in Farringdon between 2015-2020. All this positive activity, compounded with the area's inherent qualities and heritage, is creating something inspiringly unique.

“Midtown is the thriving quarter with convenient access to central London’s other vibrant hubs and leading universities. How can an area with such a location, history and culture have been overlooked for so long? We see ourselves as pioneers of urban luxury.”

THE RESIDENCES

In the creation of Pinks Mews, Sons & Co demonstrate a bold vision to set an unparalleled level of quality for the area. Inspired by the magnificent classical facade and the buildings' original purpose as warehousing for artisans, the interior style is palatial in ambition and refined in finish.

There are grand statements that speak of monumental scale: double-height spaces and oversized entrances. There are the materials we associate with sculptural art: cast bronze, travertine marble, stone and wood. And there is the finesse that evokes a sense of timeless elegance: inlaid surfaces, bookmatched finishes and bespoke artworks.

In every detail, our residents' needs are at the front of our minds, and our 24 hour concierge services are the clearest demonstration of our thorough devotion to their care.

LIVING ROOM

Duplex

The stunning impact of the double-height, open-plan living and dining area creates an opulent environment in which to live and entertain. The bespoke feature wall in the atrium accentuates the scale, while expansive glass creates a light-filled space, highlighting the crisp interior architecture. Down at floor level, the richness of dark oak flooring inspires a warmer mood.

Luxury MASTER BEDROOM

By any standards, this is an exceptionally generous room, with floor-to-ceiling windows serving to accentuate the height.

While these rooms are luxuriously carpeted and heated underfloor, an optimum environment is maintained by the concealed comfort cooling system, via iPod Touch. Other smart bedroom technology includes a USB charging point. The wardrobes are bespoke to each apartment and finished with beautiful bronze ironmongery.

Bespoke BATHROOM

In a space of Zen-like serenity, the exquisite marble walls are the sole attention-seeking element.

Each slab is carefully chosen to create a seamless finish. Also designed in the name of purity, the frameless glass screen to the walk-in shower ensures an uninterrupted vista. The shopping list of high-quality features includes polished nickel taps and the underfloor heating that is essential for the ultimate luxury experience.

Lateral

The design for this room embraces space and light to create a bright, voluminous environment for relaxing and dining. In this streamlined interior, show-stopping feature lighting creates a focal point and discreet, bespoke storage provides an essential dimension of practicality. Lighting is iPad-controlled and sounds are provided courtesy of Sonos.

FLOOR PLANS

“Pinks Mews is part meticulous restoration and part luxurious transformation. While the buildings will retain their elegant classical facade, the interior is a total re-engineering internal space. By maximising the volumes and re-inventing traditional layouts, we’re creating beautiful and exciting modern homes.”

DISCOVERY

A life enriched

Midtown is burgeoning into London's most name-dropped location, linked with desirability and opportunity.

Often, compared to New York's Upper East Side, it's a melting pot of all that's great about London: history, culture and social whirl.

As the long-standing home of the legal profession and the Hatton Garden jewellery quarter, the area is already rich in local character. But, following Midtown's recent elevation, lawyers and jewellers are rubbing shoulders with first-class restaurateurs, hoteliers and boutique designers. Suddenly, Midtown is on the map – a must-go destination and a highly desirable place to live, work and play in London.

From its privileged position in the heart of it all, Pinks Mews offers the ideal, luxurious base from which to explore the glittering facets of your new landscape.
