Distinguished living at Hampstead Manor

Few places in the world can boast such richness in architecture and history as the prized north London enclave of Hampstead.

Located on a leafy road only moments from the centre of Hampstead Village, the outstanding new development Hampstead Manor embraces all of the qualities that have long made NW3 one of the most desirable British postcodes. Providing a feeling of rural serenity within easy reach of the city.

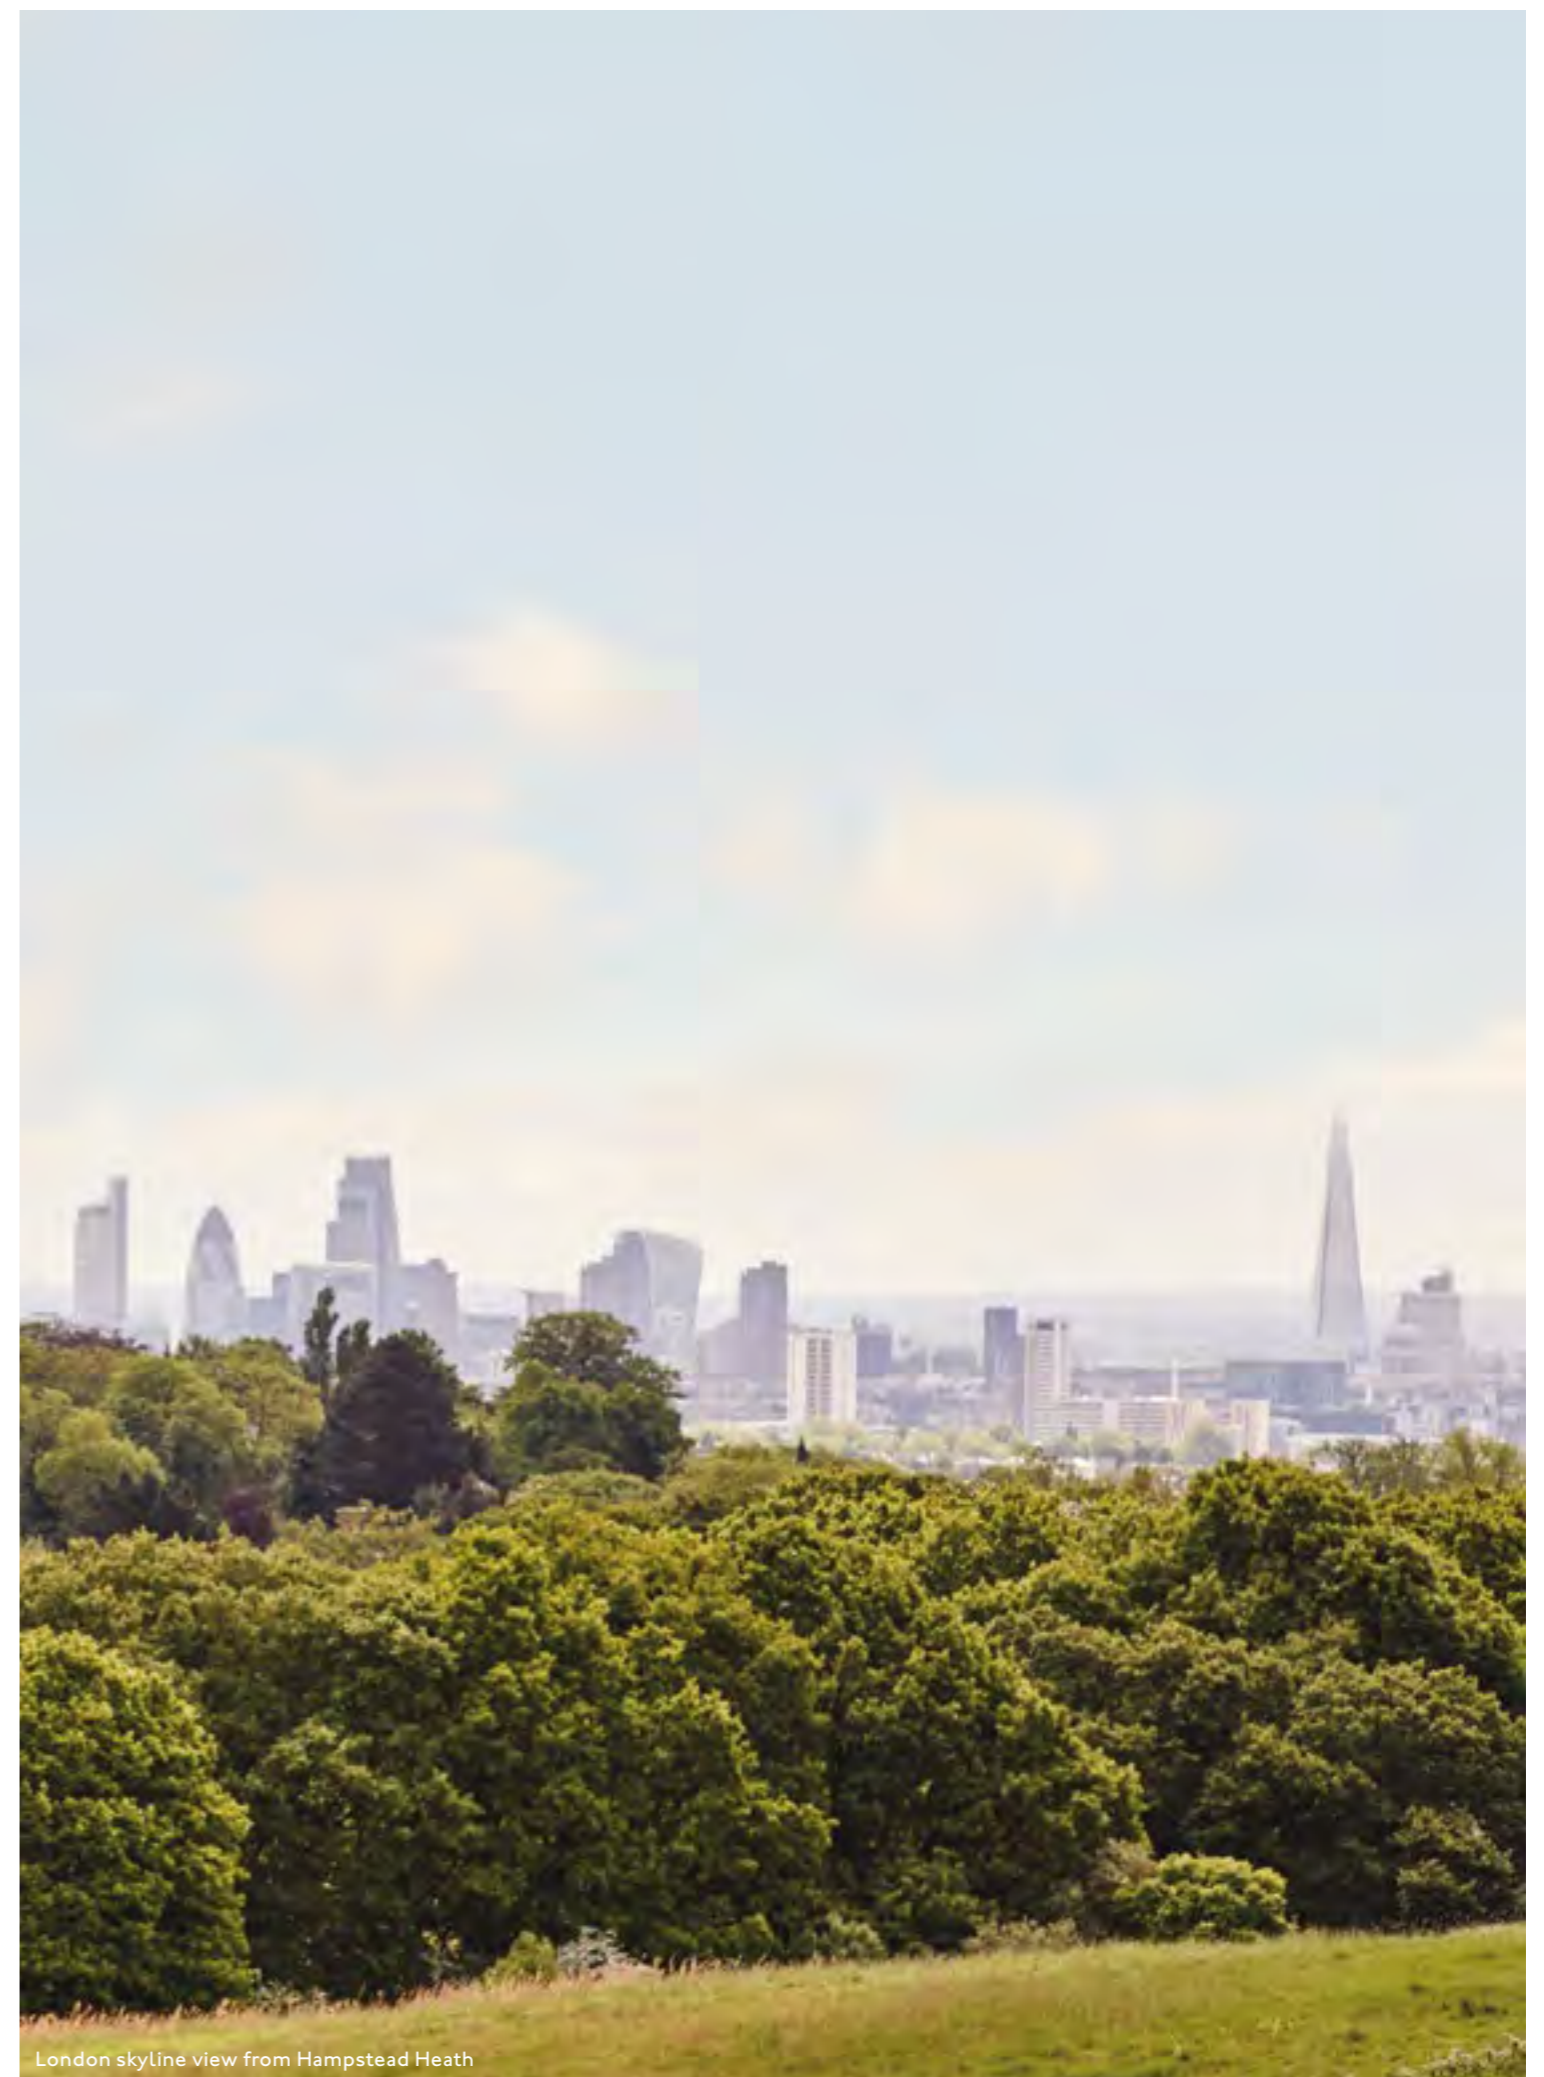

The 156 distinguished residences at Hampstead Manor range from studio apartments to four bedroom homes. From crisp contemporary apartments to the immaculate conversion of landmark Grade II listed buildings, the skill demonstrated across the whole development makes Hampstead Manor a unique example of British artistry and imagination.

Set over 13 spacious buildings running along a handsome residential avenue, the site is a remarkable proposition from conception to construction. 98 new builds, 54 sensitive conversions and a number of Grade II listed buildings, three of which offer four spectacular homes. These landmark buildings all flow confidently from one to another.

An intriguing mix of eras and architectural styles are ingeniously represented, exquisite in every sense.

Kidderpore Hall stands in all its white-stuccoed magnificence. A painstakingly restored 1843 mansion first built by John Teil, an ambitious East India leather trader. Immaculate communal lawns are edged with bluebells and poppies in Spring. The elegant façade of the significant 19th century Skeel Library building is retained as part of an ambitious contemporary home. Resplendent gardens, contained within a communal courtyard area and a sweeping Edwardian staircase surrounded by Magnolia, Hornbeam and Indian Bean trees. Overlooking Teil Green are elegant, high-windowed studios, which now function as spacious living spaces, once the preserve of eminent botanists teaching at Westfield College, which formerly occupied the building.

Hampstead Manor combines a unique sense of heritage with contemporary finesse. Here is serenity, grace and a distinctive feel of charm. In NW3, you would expect no less.

A unique history of craftsmanship and innovation

By 1843, the village of Hampstead was known throughout London for its airy location, fresh wells and streams.

Built that year, Kidderpore Hall was the home of the powerful merchant John Teil, an East India trader with vast tanneries in the Kidderpore district of Calcutta. The perfectionist Teil insisted that his house embodied the supremely graceful and restrained architectural style of the Greek Revival movement.

Neo-Grecian columns, sash windows, pristine white stucco. Originally a single structure that stood on the top of a hill, Teil wanted the grounds all around to emulate a rural idyll, with even decorative flocks of groomed sheep. Very much the preserve of ‘a select, amicable, respectable and opulent neighbourhood’ – as Hampstead historian, John James Park, once put it.

In 1890, Kidderpore Hall was acquired by Miss Constance Maynard and Ann Dudin Brown for Westfield College, a respected educational establishment for women with a special interest in botany.

Along with a purpose-built hothouse, various other edifices came about organically down the years, each embracing an intriguing variety of architectural styles and purposes.

A 1903 lead-windowed library suggests the Edwardian Baroque. A 1928 chapel sits serenely in the harmoniously restrained classical style. A wing from 1889 imitates the fine, regal élan of William and Mary, co-regents over the Kingdoms of England, Scotland and Ireland between 1689-1702. Living and working in these college buildings, the teachers and students formed the foundations for what is now the world-renowned Queen Mary University. And from 1989, the campus was home to students of King’s College London until Mount Anvil acquired the site and its five Grade II listed buildings in 2016.

Restored with quality and care

Hampstead Manor is a highly unique site. It spans almost two centuries and many different eras of architectural and interior design. As an ambitious restoration project approached in consultation with architectural historians, every detail has been minutely considered. From the retaining of various species of tree ensuring that the site maintains its authentic character, to the use of a bespoke lime-based wash to bring out the china-clay Greco brightness in original stucco, the restorers have been committed from the beginning to maintaining the integrity of the original buildings and gardens.

A specially trained black Labrador was used to precisely locate any areas of damp, allowing the surveyors to construct a intricate 'map' of places to repair, without having to remove delicate and valuable panels in the process. A long-abandoned 19th century summer house once used as a 'hot room' for the study of rare botanical plants will be painstakingly dismantled then to be reconstructed by experts in Georgian materials.

The lines once cleverly incised into stucco to imitate Portland stone on the 1843 Kidderpore Hall will be re-sharpened to incite the crispness of the original. And yet the Hampstead Manor restorers have been mindful that this is an historic site, and a certain 'aged' feel is appropriate for the area and setting.

The tiles on the roofs have been removed and renovated, but then replaced exactly in the inimitable, weather-patterned shape of their two-centuries use. A process involving a devoted team of restorers working through decades of previous restoration to reveal the original. Carefully stripping away layers of history in order to see what lies beneath, ever-mindful that they are bringing a landmark Hampstead site into modern use.

It has been an intricate balance, achieved only through the utmost historical interest and expertise.

Maynard within Hampstead Manor

With views overlooking Teil Green and the verdant grounds of The Orchard on either side, Maynard is built on the prominent centre of the Hampstead Manor development, adjoining Kidderpore Hall, The Skeel Library and Chapman.

Comprising 16 unique homes, housed within a carefully restored late 19th century building, Maynard offers a range of one, two and three bedroom homes with distinctive interiors.

Built as a wing to Kidderpore Hall in 1889, Maynard is born from a rich historical context that is closely aligned with the educational heritage of Hampstead Manor.

Through careful architectural restoration, the building's original red brick patina is brought into the present day and its functionality is given renewed contemporary appeal; defining elegant homes within the building's former academic interiors and botanical laboratories.

Maynard provides elegant homes designed with a timeless, classical sensibility. Couched within the calm, sophisticated grounds of Hampstead Manor, whilst within easy reach of the idyllic Hampstead village.

Goddard Littlefair

Interior design company

“I was born and brought up and live in London, and went to school near Hampstead. And so I have always had such affinity for the city and particularly this area.”

So says Martin Goddard of Goddard Littlefair, a young, award-winning studio, with experience in every facet of luxury interior design.

Used to working in landmark areas and buildings, Martin’s designs with his partner Jane Littlefair are currently taking this vibrant company to some of the countries most exciting projects. From the largest regeneration initiative in Europe - the Art Deco-inspired Corniche, along London’s Albert Embankment - to The George in Edinburgh, a hotel in a string of townhouses constructed by the iconic Georgian architect Robert Adam, around the same time John Teil was dreaming-up Kidderpore Hall. Buildings of every age, shape and scale intrigue Martin. “I’m a pen and ink king of guy” he explains, “and it’s not just the building but the place. Where is it situated? What’s it about? Why do people want to live there? I like to walk the streets all around, putting images and thoughts together in a notebook, closing my eyes and thinking - how does this area feel?” This comprehensive approach and sensitivity can be seen in all Martin and Jo’s projects. The spectacular sunsets viewed from the Southbank Tower duplex in Southwark, inspired the colour spectrum within: oyster and ochre and soft teal. Further afield, the interiors of the Corinthia Hotel along St Petersburg’s most famous street, Nevsky Prospekt, reflect the Byzantine details and depth of the work of Gustav Klimt – an opulent hint of Russian icons displayed at the Hermitage Museum a few doors down. “The paintings of Kandinski, ballet photography and costumes, a lone Edwardian door ... just about anything can inspire in me an overall look and feel. And I’m one of those crazy people who enjoys it all” laughs Martin, “even when knee-deep in concrete on a site. It’s all about heart and soul and time and thinking and talent.”

On the inspiration behind the design of Maynard

Originally, Maynard was accommodation for botany students, and it has a really interesting layout. We have particularly celebrated the one room that often gets overlooked or apologised for: hallways. Using panelling and particularly lovely light fitting points. Glazed doors with timber frames between the dining room and living room absolutely flood the hallway with so much natural light it feels as much a part of the experience of living in Maynard as the bedrooms or bathrooms.

On the inspiration behind the design of concierge and post room

Essentially this room is a contemporary glass box attached the side of a building, and so we thought it would be fun and elegant to evoke a sense of ‘glass boxes’ that have gone before - an orangery. The exposed brick shows that this building is new, but its simplicity celebrates the fact it’s cutting through the building. It feels like it belongs here. There’s a fireplace that suggests a kind of timelessness, and I particularly love the casual concierge desk, which is much more like a writing desk. The key is that this space feels absolutely residential. Not remotely like a hotel reception. This is your front door..

On the inspiration behind the entrance lobbies

Painted panelling is part of the language of all these residences. The colour palette is quite pale, but rhymes with any colour in the artwork on the walls. I especially love the colour minky, a warm grey, not quite French grey (which can be a bit dirgy) - Minky is fresher than that – it layers here with so many other colours in the artwork, not just blues and greens.

On the inspiration behind the corridors

Always a sense of quiet. Like so many of the interiors of the residences, the corridors are panelled, which makes them very much part of the story, not just spaces you scuttle along. The lighting is especially important, and we’ve used lanterns to give a sense of comfort and genuine invitation.

Maynard

Contemporary homes designed with timeless, classical appeal. Reflecting Hampstead Manor's rich heritage of educational excellence through refined interiors suited to modern living.

In their approach to designing the interiors for Maynard, London-based designers Goddard Littlefair were faced with the unique challenge of how to approach transforming the building's original, academic environments into elegant Hampstead homes, relevant to contemporary London lifestyles.

Redefining the idiosyncratic layouts of early 20th century botanical laboratories, private study rooms and student accommodation; Maynard's interiors are replete with unexpected surprises and refined details. Through their sophisticated painted panelling, decorative cornices and luxuriously crafted light fittings, the feeling of domestic warmth is balanced with a level of Hampstead refinement.

Employing a palette of pale, muted colours; Maynard's interiors are notable for their refined simplicity. A feeling of spaciousness enhanced through the use of exceptionally crafted glazed doors which channel natural light through the building's spacious rooms. Retaining the building's historical charm, wooden herringbone flooring and beautiful fireplaces create a powerful blend of tradition and modernity.

Balancing flexible, open living spaces with intimate, private places in which to unwind, Maynard's interiors are easily adaptable to the changing demands of modern living. Redefining the rich architectural heritage unique to Hampstead Manor through understated luxury, sophisticated detailing and a feeling of undisputedly timeless appeal.

Spa & gym

The Hampstead Manor spa and gym is situated in Willoughby. The design uses a crisp palette of porcelain Alabastri tiling, textured linens and iridescent jade detailed with slim seams of brass.

The health club is going to be used by all the residents, and must have a style that pleases all. The facilities will include swimming pool 5m x 14m, sauna, hammam, experience shower, spa, gym with a range of contemporary equipment plus male and female changing facilities.

Here, Giacomo Ribolla of Johnson Ribolla, reflects on the design inspirations behind this refined section of the development.

We have brought a sense of history that sits with the whole Hampstead Manor project. Of course the gym and pool themselves are the best of contemporary design, but the colour palette surrounding is traditional, opulent, almost jewelled. Porcelain tiles that look like alabaster create a pattern as though the pool has been carved out of marble. Accent colours of green and turquoise and emerald suggest something unusually luxurious. Hints of the shades of green that the Victorians found so fascinating enriched by the brass in the handrails. Always the sense of exquisite high living. Always the sense of exquisite high living.

Hampstead spectacular

An area is defined, at large by the warmth and character of its residents and in Hampstead this character is unlike any other. A suburb historically coveted by creative pioneers; writers, artists and intellectuals, who have significantly shaped the cultural landscape of this unique enclave.

The collective spirit is hard to ignore. A resolute belief in what Hampstead can and will do, defined by restless ambition and entrepreneurial élan; informing an abundance of local knowledge and proudly independent businesses, with a devoted Hampstead following. The local fishmonger. A world-renowned restorer of antique violins.

The local bookshop owner. Artisans and experts in their respective fields, working effectively as one. Together, forming an international mind with a strong local heart. Illustrating the heroes of this distinctive suburb; this is the real Hampstead. The unique characters who make it truly special. And the individual stories that they have to tell.

Florian Leonhard
Luthier

“I travel a lot. New York, Shanghai... all the most exciting cities. And then back to Hampstead...
the incomparable sense of living on a hill.”

Speak to Florian Leonhard and you’re bound to hear someone fine-tuning an antique violin in the background.

A world-renowned restorer of some of the finest historical instruments, Florian was born in Düsseldorf, and thinks of the violin as the supreme example of “European high culture. The pinnacle of composition.”

His work might take him from Argentina to Japan in the space of a fortnight, matching the right instrument to the musician, but he says he always looks forward to returning home to Hampstead.

His most treasured work memory is perhaps the time someone interrupted a break for tea and cake in Frankfurt to open a case that had been long-hidden in a vault.

Inside was a 1717 Stradivarius, made, Florian could see, from the very same piece of maple wood to one exhibited with pride in the Ashmolean Museum in Oxford. “I was glad I had a chair behind me, because I had to sit down right away...”

How long have you been in Hampstead?

Since 1993, but I had wanted to live here for decades. It is the best place in the world for me: a village, within close vicinity to the London classical music world. Just 15 minutes away from the heart of one of the world’s most important capital cities.

What are the qualities of the area that you most cherish?

I travel a lot. New York, Shanghai...all the most exciting cities. And then back to Hampstead and that calm residential feeling. The incomparable sense of living on a hill.

Favourite corner of NW3?

Church Row – the painter Constable is buried there. If the street was empty of cars, it would feel like a film set from the 17th century. The joy of walking along it! I love that I can walk to the heath almost without having to be on any streets where you can drive – just cobbled walkways running along gardens between houses.

Andy Theodorou
Fishmonger

“I’m very fussy. What we offer has to be far superior to the supermarkets.”

“You’ve got to be strange to be in this sort of trade” says fishmonger Andy Theodorou “you have to be dedicated...”

Andy started as a Saturday boy in his father’s shop in Wembley, when he was 13. Having now run his own business on Hampstead High Street for almost 30 years, the routine of getting up at 2am to be at Billingsgate Market to examine the best catches from all over the world is second-nature to him now, and not something he would ever delegate.

In any given day, Andy’s shop will have up to 100 species for sale, from the popular staples like salmon and crab to more unusual catch like the delicate Cornish rock lobster. He remembers a rare, 5 kilo Dorade from Senegal, large enough to feed a party of eight. But generally, Andy thinks that British fish are the most delicious. “They’re the best tasting. From deep, cold waters.” And always prepared simply. “Whole fish in the oven, lemon and salt and pepper. No fancy sauces.”

How long have you been in Hampstead?

Since 1989. I always wanted to have a shop here because it seemed to me very obviously the ideal place to have a fish shop or a butchers or a greengrocers – things that are now seen almost as specialist trades and that you see increasingly rarely in their own premises, are still here in Hampstead.

What are the qualities of the area that you most cherish?

That I have so many regular customers on first-name terms. That I’ll go and eat at a pub like the King William IV on the High Street and they will be serving my fish. New customers seem to be very health conscious and are always asking my advice, and I’ll tell them straight – that red snappers are a bit bland, or that Pollock is overrated. That John Dory might be ugly to look at, but is incredibly delicious.

Favourite corner of NW3?

Downshire Hill is lovely to drive down early in the morning on a delivery. There’s a gate at the end that goes onto Parliament Hill, like it’s a back garden.

It's a family thing. His father Mohammad had been a teacher in Tripoli in the 1920's, and had gone on to publish and sell books there until he came to the UK in 1979. The Fergiani's also run Darf publishers, a unique imprint publishing Arabic fiction and historic books about Libya and the wider Middle East, in translation.

Many of these books are centuries-old travelogues that Mohammed first sourced at sales and auctions across the world, and that preserve historical detail that would otherwise have been lost. "They were dead books and my father brought them back to life" insists Ghassan.

"They are true chronicles, first hand accounts, for future generations." Born in Libya, educated in America, and then travelling to join his parents in Hampstead in the 1980's, Ghassan continues to find such books, and his brothers in Libya often attend sales there on his behalf. His favourite book is a rare one, written in 1817 by the inquisitive sister of a British diplomat called Richard Tully.

"The Narratives of 10 Year's Residence at Tripoli and Africa" by a 'Miss Tully' contains not just unique engravings, but the story from a woman's perspective of "every day life in those regions". Ghassan explains that it's this that interests him most. "All the things outside politics. The daring, the bold - and the ordinary."

How long have you been in Hampstead?

We opened West End Lane books in 1994 but my father came to the area in the late 1970's. He had a very good business sense, a great instinct about people and place.

He hadn't been thinking about staying permanently in London - was leaning more towards Italy but after settling in NW3 he said "someone must be watching over us to make us come here..."

What are the qualities of the area that you most cherish?

You can find a village feeling. I walk up Haverstock Hill and see the same people, often. Each road can feel like its own village. The whole area is like a string of connected villages, and very safe. And the schools are so good - both state and private.

Favourite corner of NW3?

I love to take my children to Parliament Hill, and climb up to Kite Hill. We've walked it so many times and we're so familiar with it, every step - the people and the coffee shops along the way and all the colourful kites being flown when we get there. It's very much our neighbourhood.

Isabel Langtry
Principal, Hampstead School of Art

“In Hampstead... you walk uphill, and continuously towards a sense of freedom.”

“When I first came to London I studied sculpture...” explains Isabel Langtry, Principal of Hampstead School of Art, situated just moments from Hampstead Manor.

It was her scientist parents in Lagos and their intense love of African sculptures and pre-Columbian terracottas that first inspired Langtry's own work as an artist and still feeds her drive as head of this extraordinary school. Established in the 1960's by the great sculptor Henry Moore (then one of a colony of international avant-garde artists congregating in the area) it offered tuition for ordinary people. The school remains non-profit, welcoming students aged 5-95. Classes and exhibitions are also overseen by the school elsewhere in the village. Langtry remembers the first time she came to Hampstead to look around the school. “I thought - Hampstead's artistic and intellectual community is simply extraordinary. Hepworth. Moore. Mondrian. All inspired by Hampstead's trees...” Moore had been mustard gassed in WW2 and firmly believed that art was a healer. “There is nothing greater than enthusiasm,” he once said - and Langtry remains enthusiastic about embracing art in the location Moore loved.

How long have you been in Hampstead?

I came to the school in 2011 and I particularly loved that anybody can join the school. That we guarantee them exhibitions and that it acts as a general art hub. The council recognises the school as significantly beneficial to the local community, from the very young to the elderly, and the sick – we run outreach groups for people with all sorts of mobility problems. Art can provide unique neuro and physical connectors. We are always thinking of new ways, and new programmes.

What are the qualities of the area that you most cherish?

The nature. The culture. The powerful artistic and intellectual history, all melded in this countryside. And it is countryside here, I think. Hampstead's beautiful setting is pivotal, and inspirational. There's a very special community of people here who value what Hampstead is, and are focused on what it is that makes the area individual, and want to preserve it. But not preserved in aspic. The area is always embracing new activities, like the Affordable Art Fair Hampstead branch. It's an important part of the Hampstead Summer Festival, and entwined in the Hampstead character. Local artisans, food, dancing, singing - 300 people at Whitestone pond alone! Artists and patrons and families and residents, everybody brought together through art.

Favourite corner of NW3?

I absolutely have one! If I have a sneaky few hours off, I love to walk from the school, slowly to the Community Market on the High Street, and buy a great big lump of cheese and a bag of cherries. It always feels like a holiday.

Keith Fawkes
Antiquarian and Bookseller

“When you’ve been here as long as I have you come to know literally hundreds of people. There is still a great feeling of community here.”

“My whole history has been north London” explains bookseller Keith Fawkes. “Muswell Hill, and West End Lane, working in an antique shop when I was 16...”

Then, in 1965, Keith happened on the chance to buy an historic building along the iconic Flask Walk at the centre of Hampstead Village, and opened his antiquarian bookshop. He's worked and lived above ever since.

Keith is a direct descendant of Guy Fawkes, whose effigy is traditionally burned along with firework displays across the country each November 5th. “He was an interesting man” nods Keith, “and a mercenary in Portugal - that’s how he got his nickname Guido...” Some of the most intriguing books in Keith’s shop come from the content sales of old houses and private libraries in the area.

He recalls coming across an entirely unique 1810 catalogue, personally annotated by the English art historian and Whig politician Horace Walpole, describing in detail the unusual contents of his famous Strawberry Hill House. Keith sold it to the British Museum.

Another time, he found a pile of manuscripts and letters by the poet and mythographer Robert Graves. But the thing Keith most longs to happen-upon is a “fantastically beautiful illuminated medieval manuscript.” He admits such an ancestral find would be unlikely anywhere in the country, “but around here, you just never know.”

How long have you been in Hampstead?

My whole life, it feels like! Over half a century. When I first came to Flask Walk there were 3 butchers and a wool shop – very much an individually-run little road and although of course all things shift and change, it still has a feeling of that now.

What are the qualities of the area that you most cherish?

When you've been here as long as I have you come to know literally hundreds of people. There is still a great feeling of community here. When I first came here the area was full of so many painters and intellectuals and pianists and a large German Jewish community, and many of their children remain. I'm acquainted with so many people and their various descendants and then friends of their too, I find myself stopping and chatting and then stopping again.

Favourite corner of NW3?

I think to be territorial, it has to be Flask Walk. It's a very popular little village side-street, and all sorts of people pass by. Perrins Lane is terribly pretty too, and the Holly Bush pub. And the Flask pub, of course, just down from the shop. We're so lucky in Hampstead. I shall be here til I die.

Raymond Simonson
Chief Executive, JW3

“Here there is a true vibrancy. Whenever I walk along Hampstead High Street I feel like it’s a sunny day.”

Chief executive of the dynamic, bronze and glass Jewish community and arts centre JW3, Raymond Simonson brims with anecdotes.

A qualified youth worker with a masters in Applied Anthropology, he praises the “exuberance of Jewish life” to be found in the 35,000 square foot, 10-story building. And speaks with tremendous passion about it as an arts institution and general gathering place. Movies and literary festivals. Talks and exhibitions. Support groups and anti-natal classes.

Pop-up beaches in the summer, an ice-rink in the winter, and all things in between (such as David Beckham in conversation with Kirsty Young.) “We want to celebrate diversity” he insists, “and at the same time emphasise unity. Religious and secular, all sorts of people – all under this one roof.”

How long have you been in Hampstead?

For two and a half years – the building was actually inspired by the chutzpah of Manhattan’s JCC, on the Upper West Side. A place where people can engage in arts and culture to broaden their education and strong Jewish values, but also a place of strong community and charity for the whole area. Hampstead is uniquely situated - half way between the centre of town where people go to play, and the traditional Jewish suburbs of Finchley and Golders Green.

We have world-famous drama schools and music venues nearby – it’s definitely a hub... that still feels residential. And also sits at the gateway to the north of the country. It’s exciting.

What are the qualities of the area that you most cherish?

Here there is a true vibrancy. Whenever I walk along Hampstead High Street I feel like it’s a sunny day. People do say hello here. They care hugely about their community, getting very involved in everything from super-cycle highways to schools.

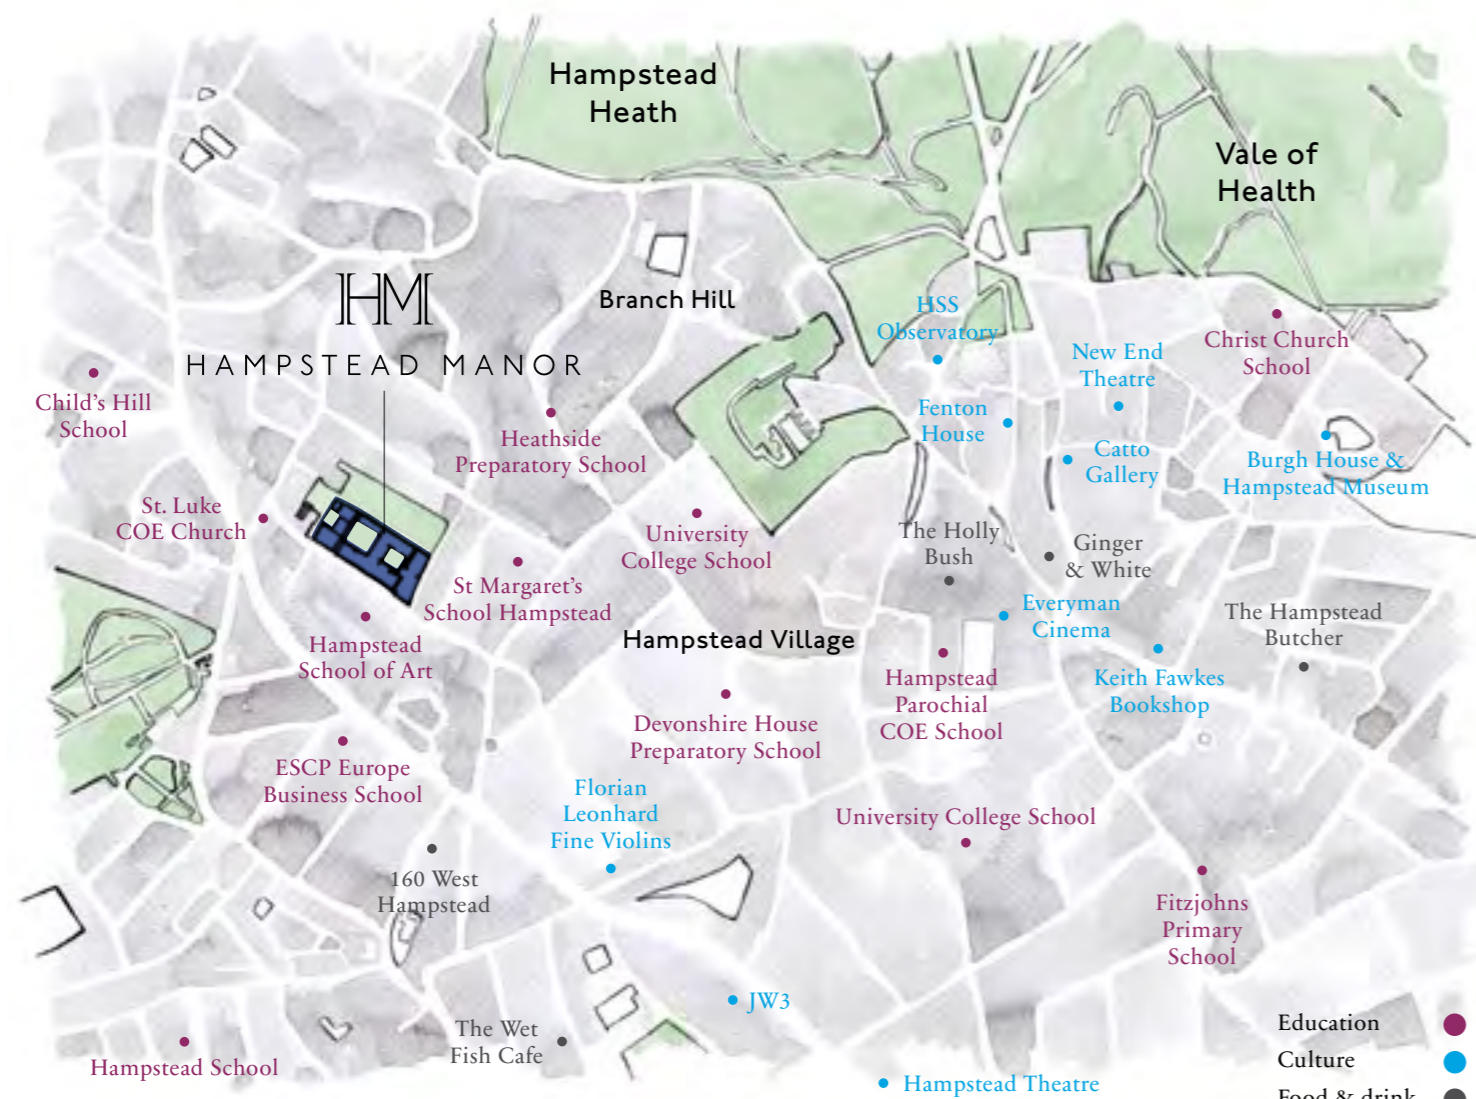

Favourite corner of NW3?

A place very close to my heart will always be the Royal Free Hospital. Both my children were born there and the staff were brilliant. My wife had a 48 hour labour with our son Mossy and I went outside in the village afterwards, bounding around saying “I’ve just become a dad!”, everybody was hugging me. And I thought – yeah. I’m in Hampstead.

“I cannot see what flowers are at my feet, Nor what soft incense hangs upon the bough”

Wrote John Keats in a poem composed whilst sitting under a plum tree in a garden on Hampstead Heath.

800 acres of ancient parkland once traversed by Roman troops, the world famous heath meanders to the east of the village through woodland, dell and meadow. Looking over the shimmering city, here find local families and friends gathering for walks. Kites flying high overhead. And on the ground below, people practicing Tai Chi, and swimming leisurely in the ponds.

Nestled within the surrounding green pasture are bronze sculptures by one-time Hampstead resident Henry Moore. And yet it's always easy to discover a quiet place to read, long grass to relax in, as though entirely alone and private.

The streets winding off the heath up the hill and into the village beyond seem to breathe the same rejuvenating air. Houses hang with fragrant wisteria, and winding paths lead to hidden garden gates.

The feeling of an English country village, albeit one that is defined by a discerning metropolitan mindset. A mindset with a close connection to the city of London.

Hampstead boasts 63 blue plaques, more than any other London district. These mark the homes of notable residents down the centuries. Prime ministers and publishers, dancers and duchesses. Proud of the prodigious history of so many who have lived and walked here, the residents of Hampstead maintain an enduring community spirit.

Each Saturday, crowds gather on the heath to purchase the finest local produce at the cherished farmer's market. On rose-pink summer evenings, cafés spill their tables onto pavements and cobbles, and in the lingering sharp blue afternoons of autumn, fires are first lit in the pubs.

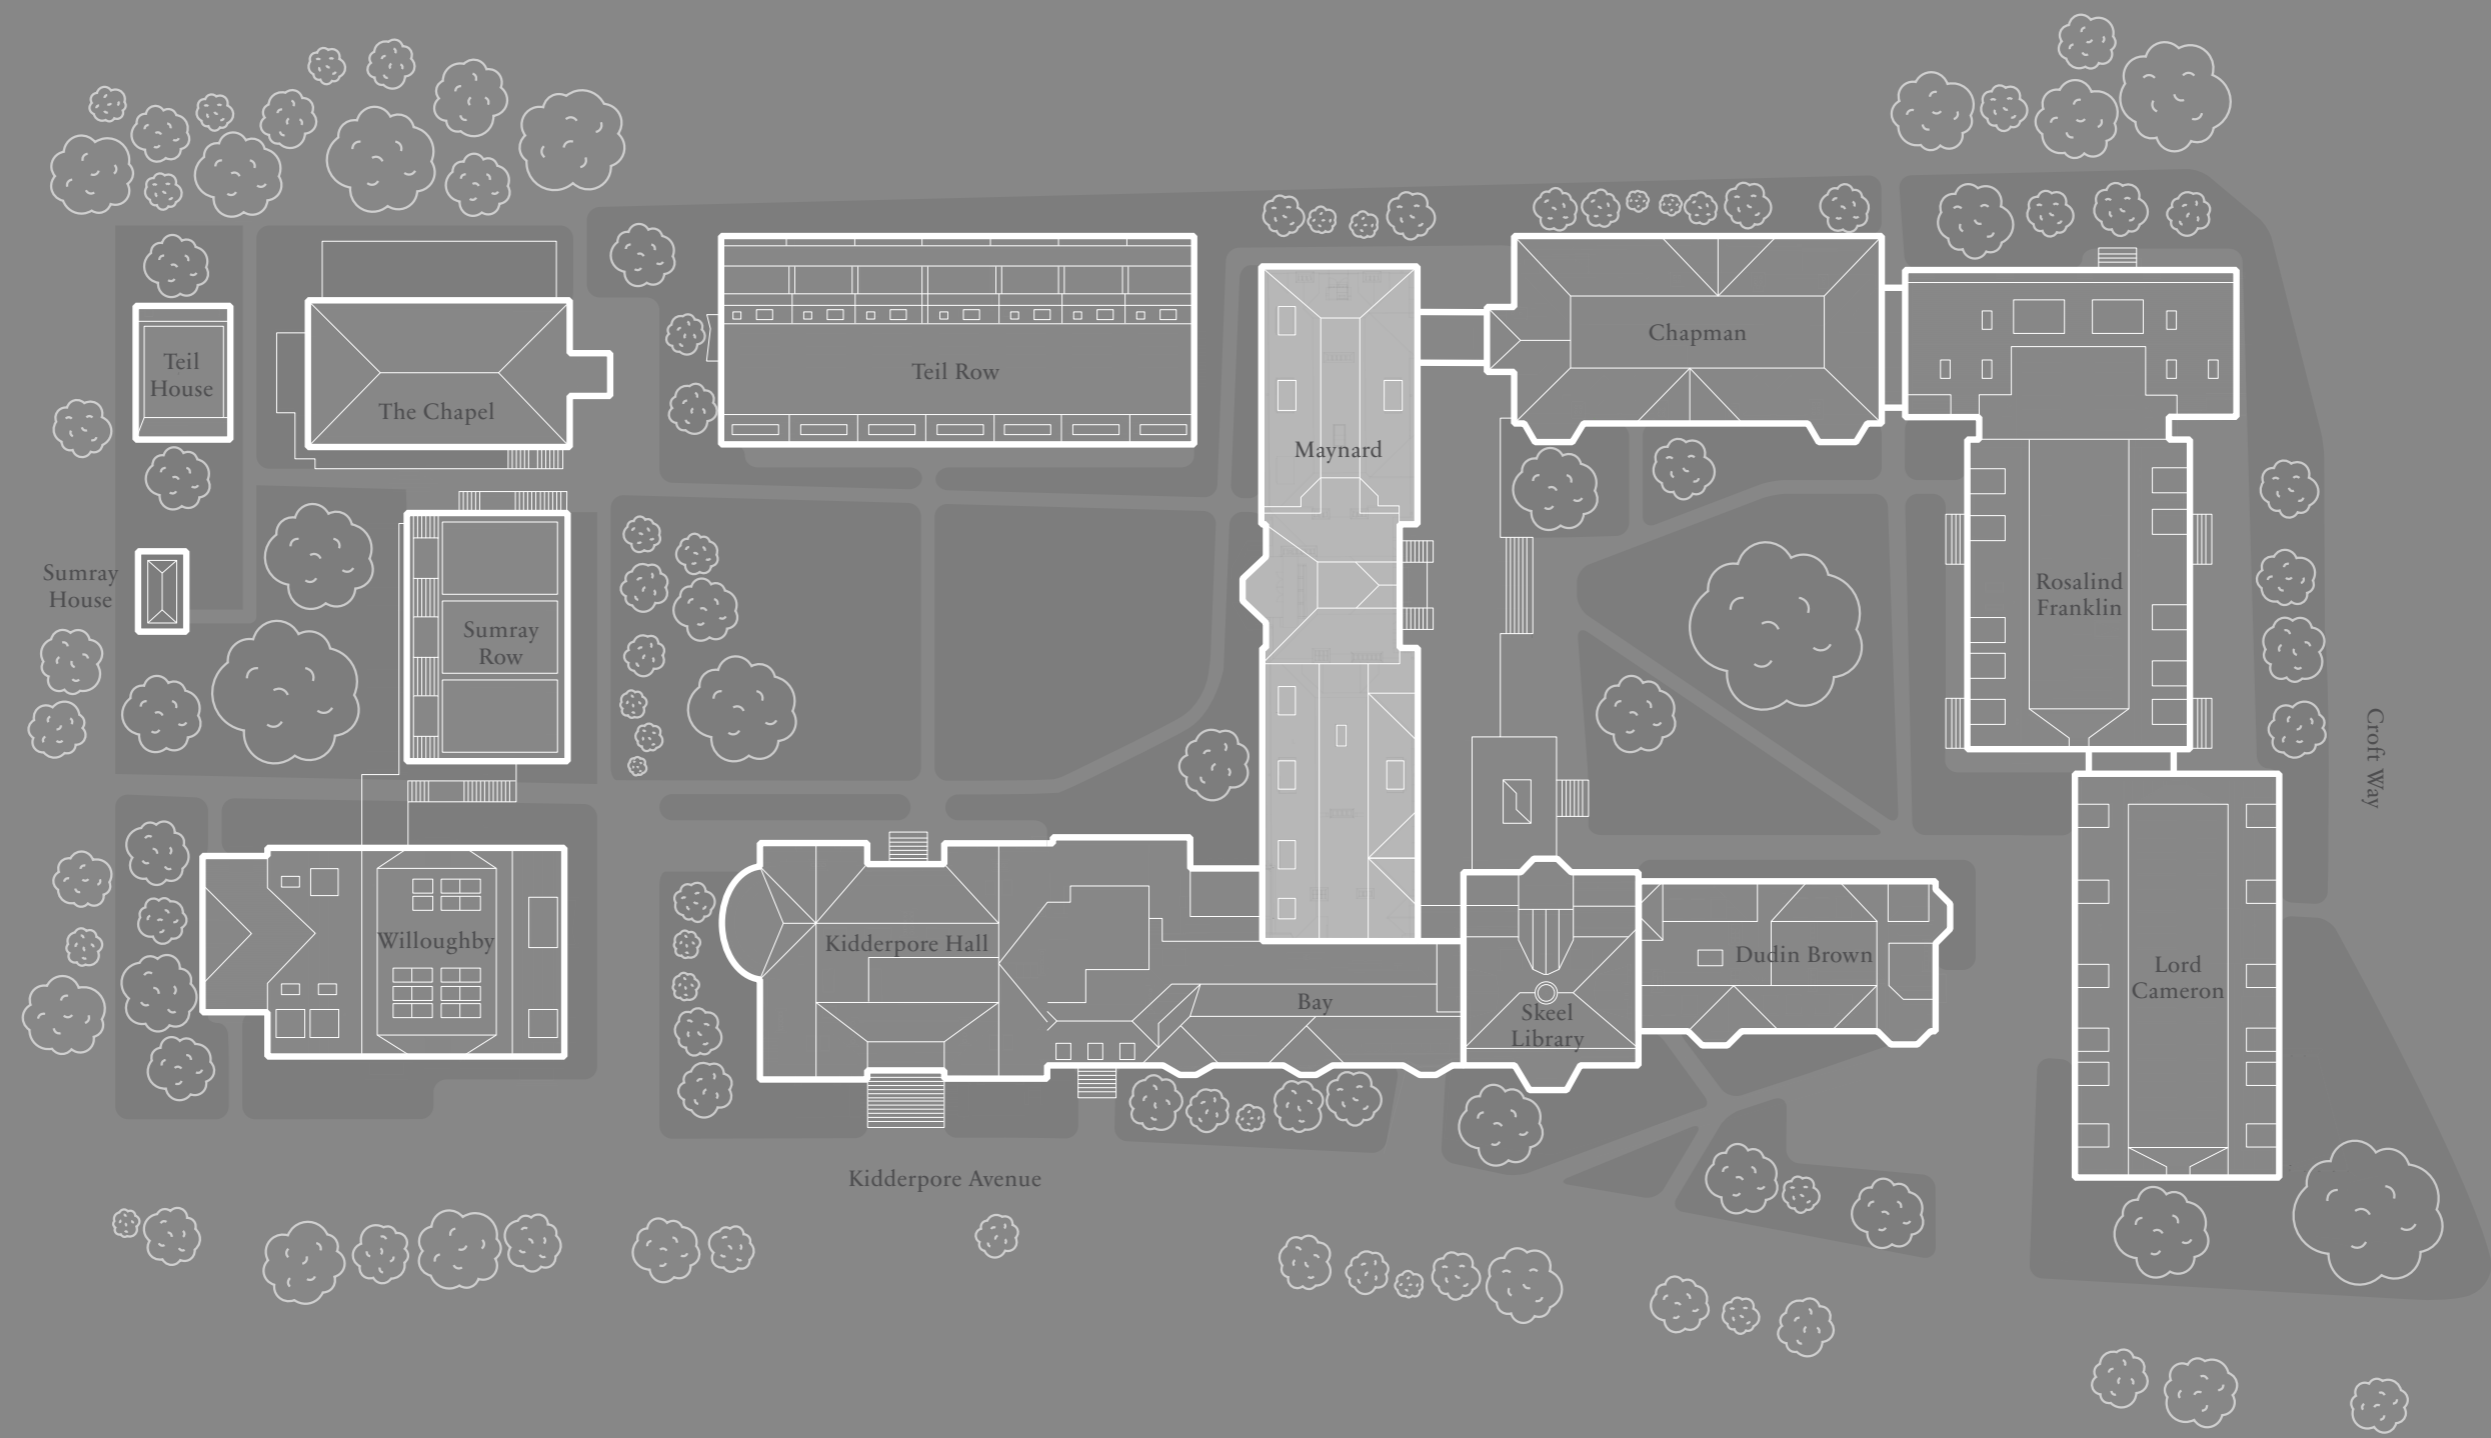

2.00pm Kenwood House

Mount Anvil is Central London’s specialist residential developer. Together with our joint venture partners, we have created more than 5,000 London homes since 1991. We plan to build 2,500 more by 2018. We focus on legacy, location, design and quality; creating homes in highly desirable locations, employing internationally acclaimed architects and interior designers, and meticulously selecting materials, so that our developments are unique, stand the test of time and add to London’s world-class status. Our approach, the ‘Mount Anvil way’, entails engaging highly talented people who are experts in their fields, then challenging them to think creatively, work collaboratively and to do the right thing with the aim of relentlessly striving to deliver excellence. It’s an approach that has been recognised through numerous awards, including:

‘Developer of the Year’ (less than 1,000 units) at the RESI Awards (2013, 2014 and 2015); the Evening Standard Award 2015 for Best London Homes; and Gold Award for ‘Best Interior Design’ at the 2013 What House? Awards. We have also been recognised as one of The Sunday Times ‘Best 100 Small Companies to Work For’ for the last eleven years and recently awarded a Women In Construction Award for staff development and training – a standout achievement in the British property industry. Named the UK’s number one company by the British Safety Council for health and safety across all sectors (2014–2016). Awarded 3 Swords of Honour (2014–2015) in recognition of our approach to safety excellence, a Globe of Honour for our commitment to the environment and sustainability (2015) and the Considerate Constructors Gold award (2016).

Mount Anvil in partnership with Aston Martin Racing

The Aston Martin Racing car and a view over London from the top of Dollar Bay

Airlifting the Aston Martin Racing car 360 feet above Canary Wharf

In 2016, Mount Anvil became the official Central London Luxury Homes Partner to the world famous Aston Martin Racing team.

The partnership; built on aligned values and individual reputations for design excellence and world-class health and safety, sees two British brands come together to knowledge share across our individual core competencies. At Mount Anvil we are known for our innovative, quality developments that deliver homes people love to live in, similarly Aston Martin Racing is known for their ground breaking vehicles that people love to drive.

To celebrate the launch of this unique partnership – a first between Aston Martin Racing and a specialist property developer – a V8 Vantage GTE Challenger was lifted by crane 30 storeys high to the top of Dollar Bay, our dockside, 31 storey, Ian Simpson designed crystalline glass tower which overlooks the international finance hub of Canary Wharf. The result was a spectacular stunt that drew together the best of both Mount Anvil and Aston Martin Racing’s teams – a true collaboration underpinned by a commitment to the partnership.

Jon Hall, Sales & Marketing Director, Mount Anvil, said: “This partnership brings together two multi-award-winning, globally sought-after, British brands – each renowned for iconic design, exceptional quality and world-class health and safety. With our aligned customer bases, individual expertise and global reach, we’re hugely excited to be working collaboratively to take our partnership to new heights.”

John Gaw, Managing Director, Aston Martin Racing, said: “Aston Martin Racing only looks to partner with those who are raising the bar in their respective fields. Mount Anvil have been doing so for 25 years. Their iconic, design-led London developments, world-class approach to health and safety, and focus on people demonstrate that in abundance. When you think of London homes, you think of Mount Anvil. That’s why we’re delighted to welcome them into the Aston Martin Racing family.”
