IT'S SEW YOU

A limited collection of 12 new Shared Ownership homes minutes from leafy Finsbury Park, north London. Patchworks has a mixture of homes designed to suit your needs.

It's all in a vibrant neighbourhood with loads to do on your doorstep and great connections into town.

Life is a patchwork and we've got it all sewn up.

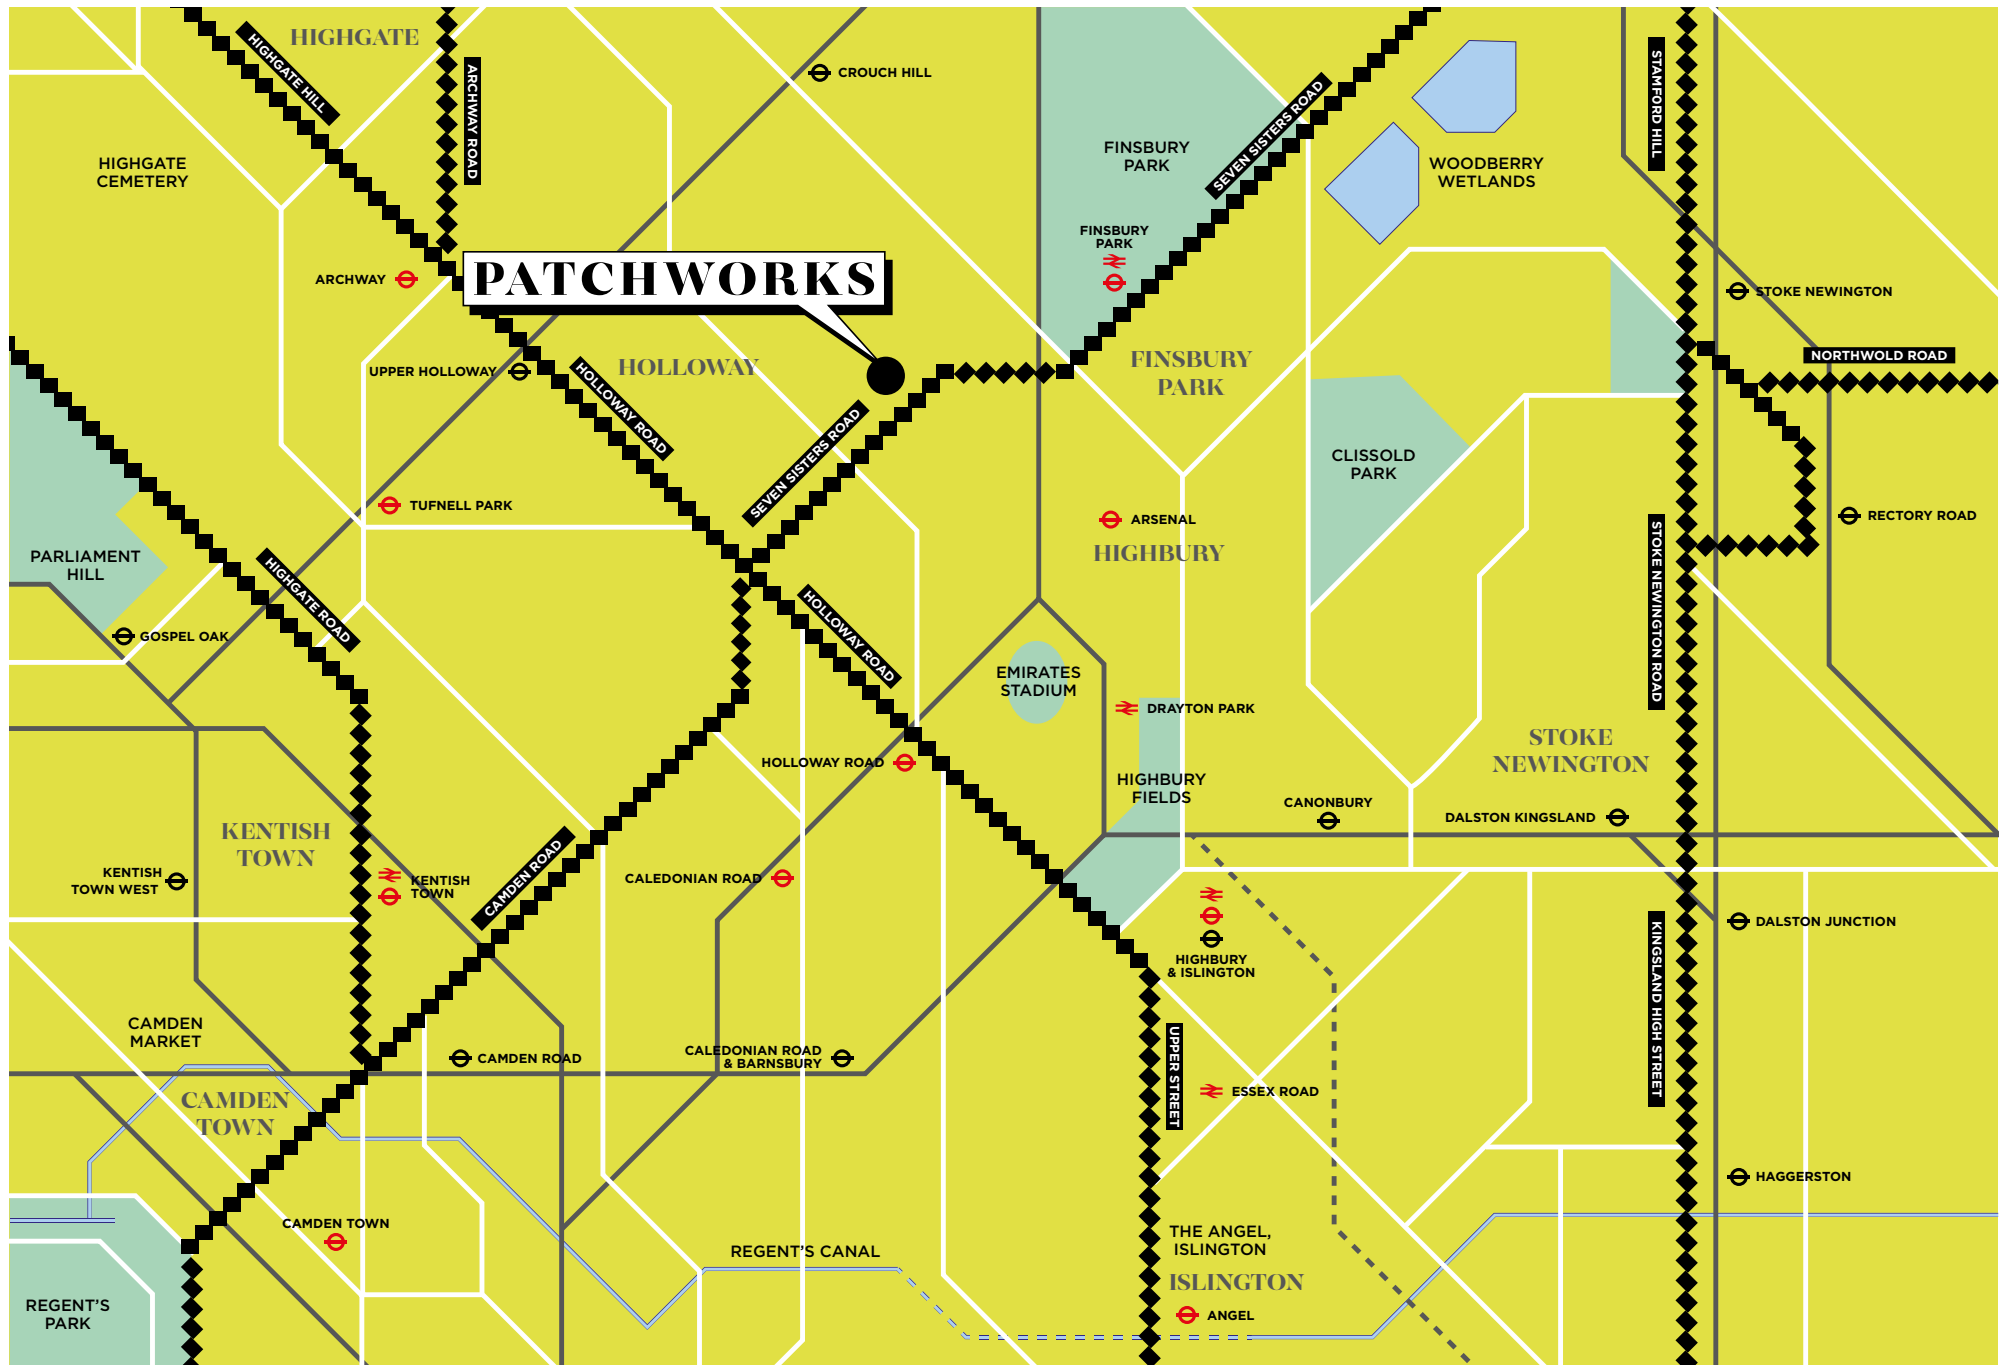

Finsbury Park – The Evening Standard's top hotspot for first-time buyers

CHOOSE YOUR PATCH

Finsbury Park, in the borough of Islington, is at the intersection of several London districts, from high-end Highbury to Haringey. With its nearby acres of green space and quick transport connections into central London and beyond, the neighbourhood is an increasingly popular choice for first-time buyers and young families and was recently listed as one of the Evening Standard's top hotspots for first-time buyers. The Patchworks apartments form part of Berkeley's larger Cottonworks development, an exciting new brick building along the Islington end of Seven Sisters Road, that blends seamlessly with existing architecture.

Patchworks is a collection of apartments of all shapes and sizes, tailored to fit your needs. With four one-beds, five two-beds and a handful of threes, they're perfect for those just starting to thread their way. Single young professionals and home-workers, brand-new couples and budding families – all fit into the fabric of this diverse new community. Shared Ownership through world-renowned housing association Peabody means getting the keys to your own home is no longer out of reach.

The Patchworks apartments are contemporary but familiar, indulgent but low-key cosy. A five-storey building with a retro feel, it will house exciting new retail units on the ground floor with four floors of residences above. All apartments have large windows, with most facing the quieter outlook to the back. You're both at the heart of the action and tucked away from it all. All apartments benefit from access to a rooftop garden. It's a perfect place to relax with a craft beer, take the office alfresco – or get to know your new neighbours.

Patchworks is surrounded by green spaces

IT'S A WALK IN THE PARK

Finsbury Park is surprisingly central and wonderfully well-connected, where diverse cuisines and shops from many communities exist side by side. As the London district celebrates its 150th anniversary with a programme of community events, will you become a new piece of its rich patchwork as it looks to the future?

Finsbury Park

Despite its inner London location, this neighbourhood is green, green, green. You've got the huge expanse of Finsbury Park itself: a verdant Victorian pleasure garden and sporting magnet. There's the recently regenerated nature reserve of Woodberry Wetlands. And linking the park all the way to Highgate Village and Alexandra Palace is the Parkland Walk, a green pedestrian and cycle route along a disused railway line. It's your secret leafy passageway through the heart of north London.

ROUND THE WORLD IN 80 PLATES

Uber Eats is uber-convenient, but sometimes you can't beat a proper bricks-and-mortar dining experience. With so many cultures and flavours in the neighbourhood, you can eat somewhere different every night of the month. But you might want to get to know some local faves.

Seven Sisters Road is lined with eateries and the greatest hits include lively Greek joint Apollo, innovative Italian Girasole and incredibly popular Korean restaurant Dotori. Nag's Head Market has recently been revamped with a raft of global street food vendors serving late – including some awesomely authentic Japanese options, while The Junction Market nearby is a food hall teeming with traders.

Nearby get a pizza the action at Osteria Tufo, stay up pasta your bedtime at Alcedo or bag some of the best bagels and challah in town at The Happening Bagel Bakery. Provisions on Holloway Road is a wonderful wine and cheese emporium great for dates, while a late-night (or earlier) kebab is always on hand from one of the many local grill houses. We love E. Mono's juicy wraps and Baban's pillow-soft naan.

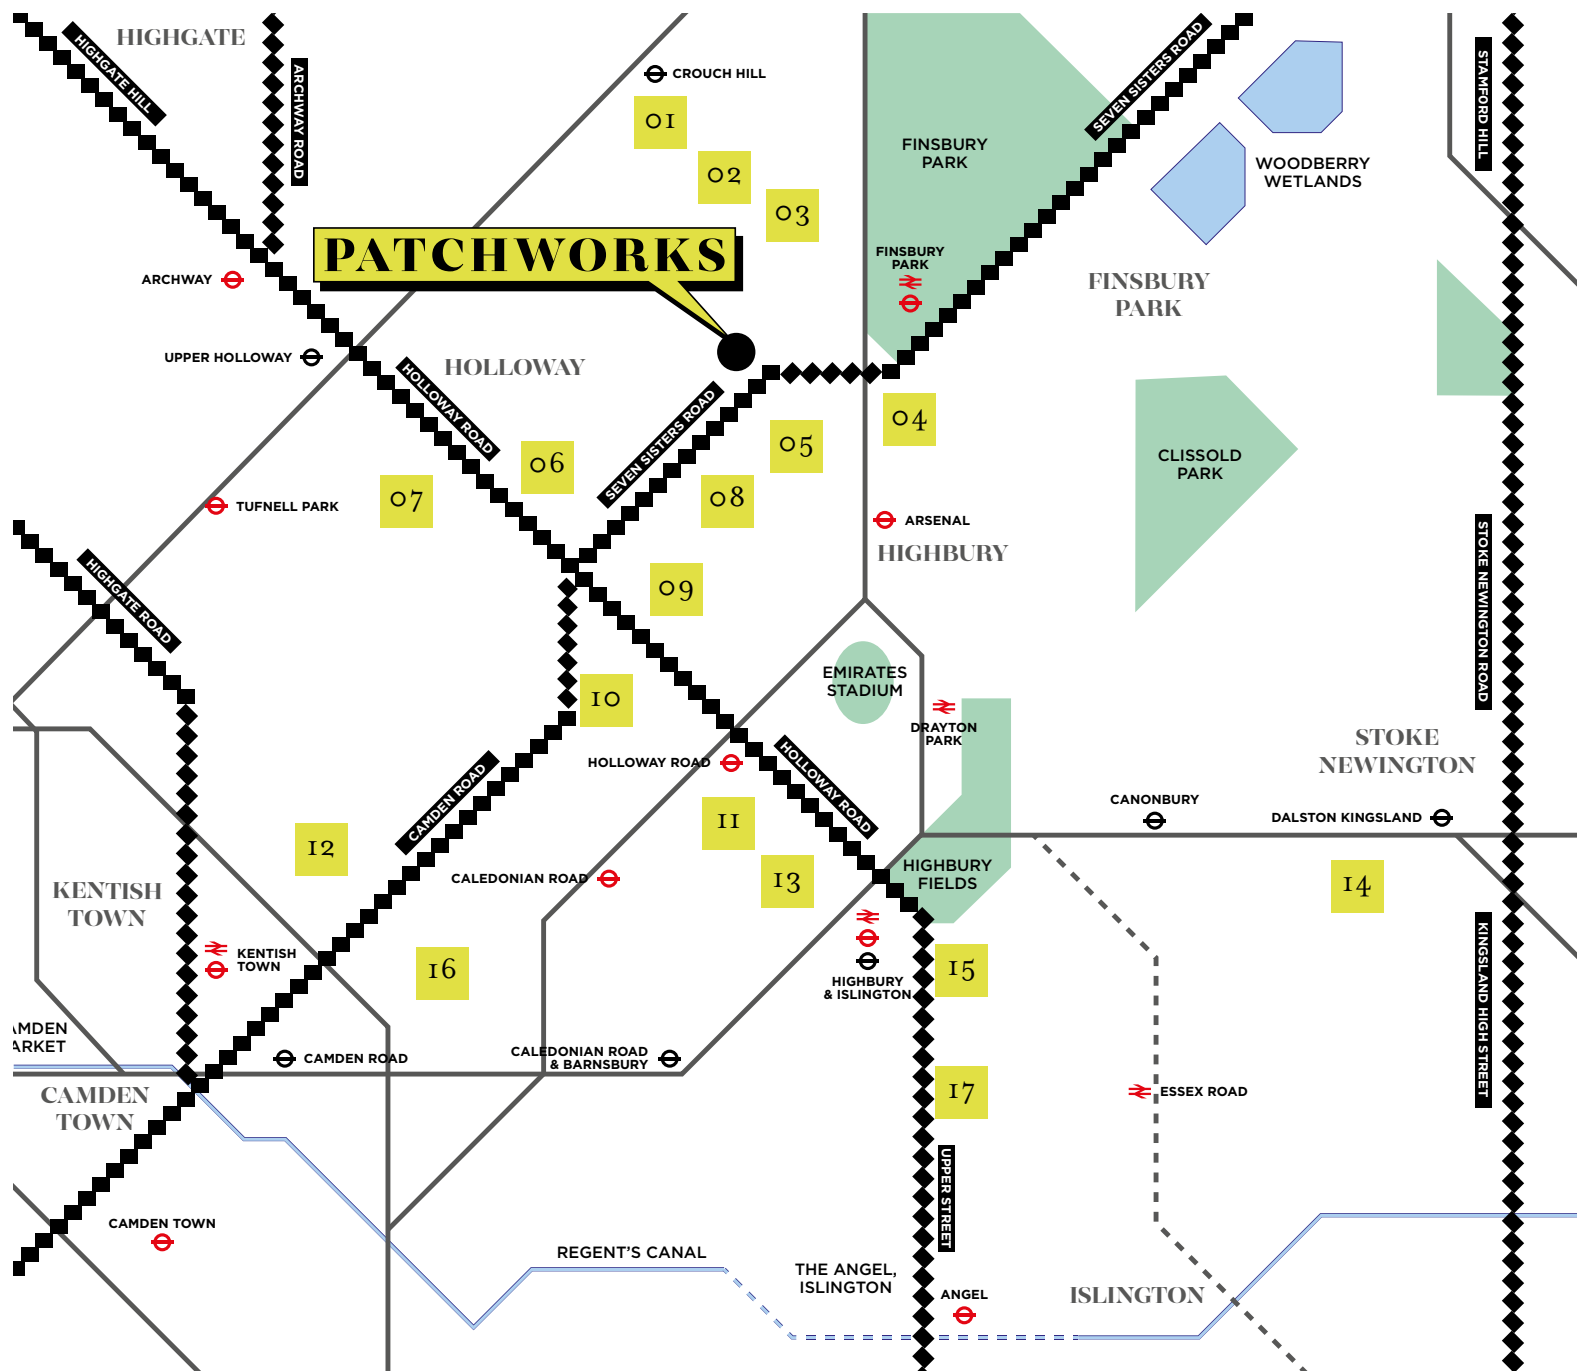

The Owl & Hitchhiker, Holloway Road

With a host of characterful pubs and bars, you don't need to venture for a big night out. Lined with bric-a-brac and with a huge maze of a beer garden, the Faltering Fullback is a local quirky legend. There's the light and airy White Lion, charming Owl & Hitchhiker and the cosy Swimmer at the Grafton Arms. If you're after something a bit more refined, Oak Wine Store and Bar is a local hidden gem, selling 180 wines. Or, a ten-minute meander away, Highbury Library is a chilled local hangout with a garden, vinyl library and a range of cocktails.

EVERY PATCH TELLS A STORY

Finsbury Park Concrete Skatepark and Bowl

Fitness fanatics are living in the right place. Finsbury Park houses tennis and basketball courts, a skatepark, athletics track and a brand-new outdoor gym. Flex your muscles at the Castle Climbing Centre, one of the premier centres in Europe with over 5 floors of fun- and growing! Or join one of the ever popular Saturday parkruns to get fit and meet your neighbours at the same time. Pints afterwards are optional. If pumping iron's your thing, you can join the local branch of 24-hour PureGym, but you'll probably gravitate towards the frankly epic Sobell Leisure Centre just five minutes away, with everything from trampolining to boxing, soft play to squash, and ice skating to saunas.

The Castle Climbing Centre, Green Lanes

Tenpin Bowling

Over in the reopened Woodberry Wetlands, recharge amongst the tranquillity and beauty of nature in the heart of urban London - kids will adore the wildlife weekends. But you can't call yourself a proper local without at least one trip to Rowans Tenpin Bowl: it's not where you'd go for a quiet game but it's retro and best of all it's round the clock!

Park Theatre, Finsbury Park

Camden Passage, The Angel

The thrills and spills of the West End are clearly only a tube ride away, but sometimes it's nice to keep it local and Park Theatre is a spanking new neighbourhood playhouse seconds from the station. It stages first-rate, cutting-edge fringe theatre as well as family shows at Christmas time. Meanwhile the vast Odeon on Holloway Road is your go-to cinema for all the latest releases.

From big stores to little independents, you can learn to love local when it comes to shopping. Stroud Green Road is lined with tempting bakeries and quirky cosmetic emporiums. You've got historic Nags Head Market for bargains, bric-a-brac, crafts and jewellery and a flagship branch of Waitrose on Holloway Road – we told you it was an area of contrasts! Oh and Selbys is your local full-size department store, stocking designer labels, household goods and much, much more.

THREADING YOUR WAY

It's all about connections round here — you're so well placed to get pretty much anywhere. Upper Street in Islington is a 25-minute walk or one tube stop away: an upmarket mile-long stretch of chic boutiques, tempting homewares, ever-evolving eateries and bustling bars for late nights out. Slightly further east, picturesque Stoke Newington was a pocket of alternative living long before the term hipster was even coined. Today it retains its laidback village feel with organic shops, traditional pubs and ethnic restaurants rubbing up against newer children's clothes boutiques, cupcakes and craft ales. There's leafy Clissold Park and the fascinating Islington Museum. Achingly hip Dalston and chilled London Fields with its Lido are just a little further.

Heading north, Crouch End is an established community with an old-fashioned high street that feels like a little market town. There are butchers, bakers, bookshops and baby shops – and it's a hub of cultural events, from its cosy cinema to the art deco former town hall, reopening soon as an arts centre. By contrast, Green Lanes leading north from Manor House towards Turnpike Lane is a unique thoroughfare lined with some of the best Kurdish fruit and veg shops, bakeries and barbers.

The Spoke, Holloway Road

Green & Glory, Stroud Green Road

Directly west, a short bike ride will take you to Parliament Hill and the magical delights of Hampstead Heath in a jiffy and we mustn't forget Camden Town: you have to do the market at least once, so embrace it. The glory days of cheap vintage may be past but there are still bargains to be found and quirky shops at every turn.

A STITCH IN TIME

Patchworks is a 10-minute walk from Finsbury Park Station, a major transport interchange served by London Underground and mainline rail.

UNDERGROUND

On the Victoria Line, you can be at Highbury & Islington in 2 minutes and the London Overground network, and King's Cross St Pancras International in 4 minutes, with interchange on to the East Coast mainline and Eurostar trains. Euston is 6 minutes, with access to West Coast services north. Oxford Circus is just 10 minutes away, Green Park 11 minutes and Victoria, with train services south, is 13 minutes away.

TRAIN

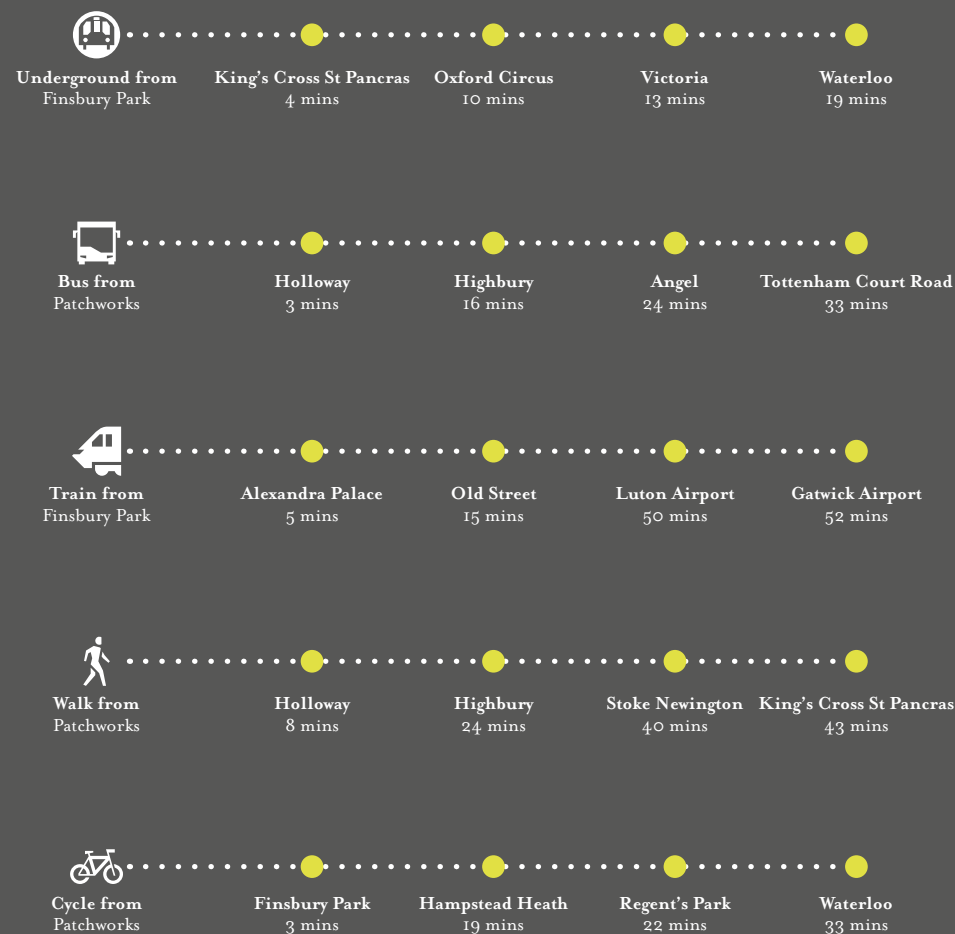

On mainline rail, Thameslink and Great Northern Trains run northwards from Finsbury Park to Alexandra Palace in 5 minutes, Stevenage in 20 minutes, Welwyn Garden City in 23 minutes and both Peterborough and Cambridge in an hour.

BUS

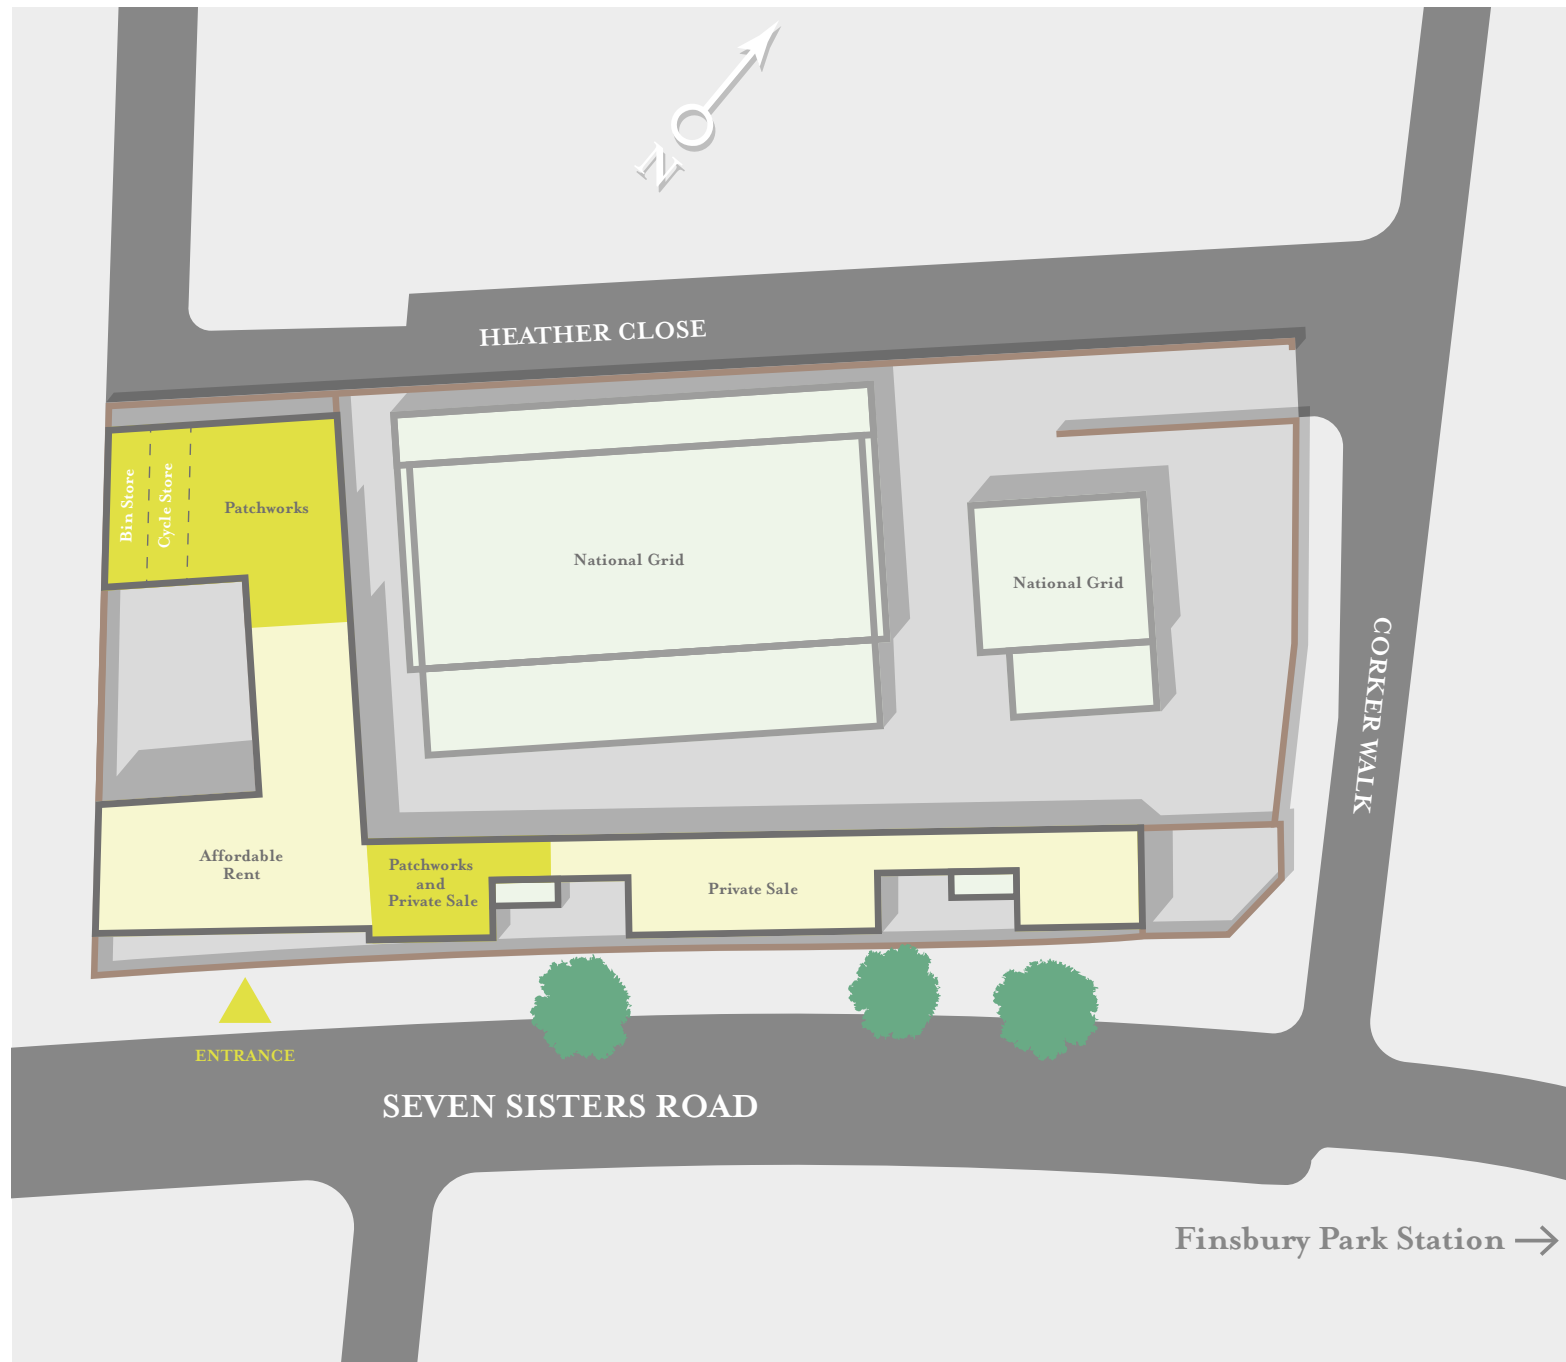

Finsbury Park is also a large bus station with useful routes including No 19, which goes to the West End via Highbury, Upper Street, Sadler's Wells, Clerkenwell, Holborn and Bloomsbury – then onwards to Knightsbridge, Chelsea and Battersea. No 4 heads to Angel, Barbican, St Paul's and Blackfriars; and northwards to Tufnell Park and Archway.

BIKE

It's never been a better time to cycle in the capital, so whether that's on your own bike or one of the many public cycle hire schemes, you can make use of London's ever increasing network of dedicated cycle lanes. And you're never far from a Santander Cycles docking station or one of Uber's new electric-assisted Jump bikes. It takes about half an hour to cycle to the West End, Broadway Market or Hampstead Heath alike, with your choice of quiet back streets or busier routes.
