

This corner of South London has long been associated with the arts and creativity through its links to Goldsmiths and the Young British Artists movement of the 90s and 2000s. Today, Deptford retains that essential vibrancy and character having evolved into a welcoming and warm community that's representative of an area rich with possibilities.

Deptford residents are drawn from all walks of life but the area's relationship with Goldsmiths sees many ex-students stay local and contribute to the creative, progressive culture that permeates the neighbourhood. Marking a perfect contrast, neighbouring Greenwich, a World Heritage Site steeped in history.

CURATE YOUR BEST LIFE Love living and shopping local

At the heart of the neighbourhood is the thriving Deptford Market Yard, home to a number of boutiques, restaurants, bars and cafés, all infused with the independent spirit of the area. Residents aren't short on inspiration with interiors and lifestyle specialists aplenty to help realise their vision. Check out Forest at Market Yard, experts in plants and products to bring nature into your home. Alternatively, a quick trip to Greenwich will really get the juices flowing with a huge array of independent shops and high-street brands to choose from.

Alive with possibility night or day, Deptford is home to an eclectic mix of eateries, bars and nightspots. Whatever your flavour, the neighbourhood has something for you. From authentic Jamaican food and Cocktails at Buster Mantis, tropical café vibes at Isla Ray, to a more traditional dining experience, and a taste of Italy in South London, check out the highly regarded Marcella on Deptford High Street.

MADE IN DEPTFORD From artists to artisans

"Deptford represents the artistic side of London. There's a really stong identity here -It's where it's at !"

▼ MANAGING DIRECTOR // THE BOHEMIANS

Deptford's unique creative culture is on show almost everywhere you look. The streets are adorned with eyecatching public art that provides the perfect set dressing for the many local artisan boutiques, businesses and galleries. From vibrant exhibition space and cafe, Deptford Does Art to award-winning hair salon The Bohemians, Deptford's independent spirit is fully in evidence.

ROYAL PARKS and open spaces

Situated at the edge of a park, one of the most pleasing aspects of life at The Scene is easy access to open spaces offering places to pause, think, relax and exercise.

Nearby Greenwich Park and Observatory Gardens dominates the wider local area both in terms of green space and its stunning panoramic views. To the north, the Thames weaves its way through London, opening up vistas to the impressive skyline of Canary Wharf across the river. Burgess Park and Peckham Rye to the west of Deptford complete the ring of green spaces that orbit the development.

THE RIGHT BALANCE Place wellbeing at the heart of your lifestyle

Balance is everything in life and a home at The Scene makes blending well-being with your lifestyle an easy choice. Residents can realign their chakras close by at The Yoga Room on Deptford Market Yard or, for a more explosive work out, make an appointment with a personal trainer at The Commando Temple on Resolution Way. To generate the perfect mind and body harmony why not try out Fujian White Crane Kung Fu who offer instruction at the Albany.

The local parks, open spaces and city beyond are well connected by an excellent network of cycle routes. The thriving repair shop and hang-out, London Velo, is testament to the extent to which cycle culture has taken off in South East London.
